

Sean Martin new International Sales Manager at HK Audio

With immediate effect Sean Martin is the new International Sales Manager and contact person for the HK Audio brand in the regions of North, Central and South America.

Back in his school days, Sean's physics teacher called him the "Speaker Man", an apt summary of his career in his opinion. It is one which has taken him from Pink Floyd concerts to designing and installing legendary British club systems to representing major professional speaker brands. He now counts a multitude of colleagues around the world among his friends and is particularly proud of the "Queen's Award for Export", which was presented to him personally by HM Queen Elizabeth II.

"I'm looking forward to getting started on this exciting new chapter as HK Audio's International Sales Manager The Americas, for this powerful, German engineered and built professional loudspeaker brand"

"Christian Jordan, CSO and CMO of Music & Sales welcomes Sean Martin to the HK Audio family: "With his infectious enthusiasm and ambition, Sean is the perfect fit for the position of International Sales Manager. In addition, his industry knowledge and extensive network are the ideal prerequisites for strengthening and further
