

AES New York 2022 Convention Registration Now Open

Join the Audio Industry in New York this October

A promotional banner for the AES New York 2022 Convention. The background is a purple-to-blue gradient with a faint, repeating pattern of the Statue of Liberty. On the left is the AES logo, a shield with 'A' and 'ES'. To its right is the text 'AES NEW YORK' in large white letters, with 'AUDIO ENGINEERING CONVENTION' in smaller white letters below it. Further right is a white silhouette of the Statue of Liberty. Below the main text, it says 'Co-located with NAB Show New York' in white. The dates are listed as 'In-Person: October 19 - 20, 2022' and 'Additional activities on Oct 18 & 21' in white. Below that, 'Online: October 26 - 27' is written in white. The website 'aesshow.com' is in smaller white text. At the bottom, a dark blue bar contains the text 'Discover More' in white.

AES
NEW YORK
AUDIO ENGINEERING CONVENTION

Co-located with NAB Show New York

In-Person: October 19 - 20, 2022
Additional activities on Oct 18 & 21

Online: October 26 - 27

aesshow.com

Discover More

The Audio Engineering Society has announced registration is now open for the AES New York 2022 Convention, taking place at the Jacob Javits Center, October 19-20, with pre-and post-show activities on the 18th and 21st, followed by an online component, October 26-27.

“While we’ve been delivering quality online events and will continue to take Convention content to a worldwide audience through an online component of the Fall Convention, there’s just nothing that completely replaces gathering as a community and interacting face-to-face,” shares AES New York 2022 Convention Chair Jonathan Wyner. “We’re hard at work putting together a program that promises to educate and inspire. We hope you’ll join us this October.”

Whatever an attendee’s audio interest or level of expertise, AES New York 2022 offers targeted content and opportunity at every turn. Along with reconnecting with colleagues, clients and friends and making new acquaintances, the eagerly anticipated return to the in-person AES Convention experience will feature a comprehensive selection of workshops, panels, demonstrations, training, research presentations, student-focused sessions and inspirational special events in its unparalleled Technical Program, in addition to the popular exhibition floor filled with the latest gear and offerings from top brands in audio. This 153rd International Audio Engineering Society International Convention will once again be co-located with the NAB Show New York, offering access to a shared exhibition floor and even greater networking opportunities among the content-creator attendees to both events.

AES New York 2022 Convention Registration Now Open

Thursday, 16 June 2022 18:20

AES New York 2022 offers several registration options: All Access for admission to all Convention events and sessions, in-person and online; Online Only registration for exclusive access from nearly anywhere in the world, in real-time October 26 - 27 and in replay through December 31; and a free Exhibits+ option for access to the in-person exhibition floor and related sessions. Advanced registration pricing, including additional discounts for AES Members and AES Student Members, is available at AESShow.com.

Additionally, attendees looking to have their work featured during the AES New York 2022 Convention can now submit proposals for Workshops, Tutorials, Papers and Express Papers, with initial deadlines coming up July 31. Exhibition, Partner Presentation sessions and digital marketing opportunities are also available for brands looking to showcase products and technologies.

AES New York 2022 event partners include Dell, IMES (Iron Mountain Entertainment Services) and Qualcomm.

www.aesshow.com