Klawitter Design (KD), an audio equipment manufacturer, unveils its new speaker lines, the redesigned Elite Series and all-new Nitros. These speakers are designed to meet the needs of audiophiles and music professionals who demand exceptional sound quality, innovative features, and stunning design.

“I put my heart and soul into creating speakers that are a true work of art,” said Keith Klawitter, founder and product designer for KD. “The Elites and Nitros represent my passion for music and design, and I am confident that they will disrupt the audio industry.”

The Elites and Nitros offer superior sound quality, thanks to their state-of-the-art components, including titanium drivers and neodymium magnets. They also feature innovative technology, such as Bluetooth connectivity, voice command control, and multi-room audio, making them the perfect choice for any music lover or professional.

“We wanted to create speakers that are not only beautiful to look at, but also offer unparalleled performance,” said Keith Klawitter, founder and product designer at KD. “The Elites and Nitros are the results of years of research and development, and we are excited to share them with the world.”

KD Design will showcase the Elites and Nitros by appointment and invites all attendees of The NAMM Show to schedule a time after the show to experience the new speaker lines. The Elites and Nitros will be available for purchase soon on the KD website and through authorized dealers.
