

Milk Audio New Gainlab Audio Distributor

Gainlab Audio, a manufacturer of studio outboard gear and audio equipment, announces its new distribution partnership with Milk Audio for the French market, effective January 1, 2025. This collaboration marks a significant milestone in Gainlab Audio's expansion, ensuring that French audio professionals and enthusiasts have greater access to its products. Milk Audio, a well-established distributor of professional audio gear, has achieved outstanding sales results with Gainlab Audio products in Italy. Their success in the Italian market highlights their expertise and commitment to quality, making them the ideal partner for expanding Gainlab Audio's presence in France.

"We look to the future with confidence. Italian users love Gainlab Audio products, and I am certain that we will be able to bring something new to the French market as well," said Alberto Rosetto (2nd from right in picture), founder of Milk Audio.

"We have been working with the Milk Audio team for a long time and are very satisfied with the results we have achieved together. We can say that there is perfect harmony between us, and we trust them to handle this important market." – Imre Makkay (2nd from left in picture), Sales Director at Gainlab Audio.

Through this collaboration, Gainlab Audio's full range of audio processors will now be available to professionals and enthusiasts across France. Customers can expect seamless support, local availability, and expert guidance from Milk Audio's team.
