

Musik Hack HyFi

Musik Hack, the company behind the acclaimed Master Plan, Fuel, and SweetEQ plugins, has officially launched its new online mastering platform, HyFi, to the public. After weeks of anticipation and a VIP soft opening, musicians and producers can now get this fast mastering solution designed to deliver professional results with minimal effort. HyFi is an advanced online audio processing platform with mastering being the first available service. Other audio-processing tools are currently in development.

Powered by the same high-quality DSP technology that has made Musik Hack products popular, HyFi delivers clear, loud, and tastefully saturated masters directly through a web browser. Functioning like a “Master Plan on the go,” the platform works seamlessly across mobile devices, tablets, and desktop computers. Designed for speed and ease of use, the workflow is simple: upload a mix, wait a few moments, and receive a professionally mastered version. While the initial result is often production-ready, users can further refine their master by tweaking loudness and tonal character, then reprocess the track until it meets their exact preferences.

HyFi is engineered to preserve the integrity of a mix while enhancing any sound of any quality for maximum loudness. Its A/B comparison tool make it easy to evaluate results, and a range of keyboard shortcuts helps speed up the mastering process. What’s more: you can master your tracks for as little as $0.99 each. Users only pay for what they use, no subscription needed.
