

POPE Professional joins RAVENNA

Lawo, developer of the RAVENNA audio-over-IP technology, welcomes Indian ProAV company POPE Professional Acoustics Ltd as the latest partner to the thriving RAVENNA community. POPE Professional, a player in India's ProAV industry, is known for its innovative range of audio solutions including loudspeakers, subwoofers, line arrays, amplifiers and digital signal processors. The company also offers comprehensive manufacturing, audio system design, installation and support, and has contributed to numerous high-profile projects across the country.

Mr. G. Parthasarathi, Managing Director of POPE Professional Acoustics Ltd, is pleased to join the RAVENNA community. "We are delighted to join the RAVENNA community. By adopting RAVENNA into our product portfolio, we can deliver state-of-the-art audio-over-IP solutions to our customers, giving them the benefits of an open, standards-based technology that guarantees reliability, flexibility, and world-class performance."

Andreas Hildebrand, RAVENNA Evangelist at Lawo, is in full agreement. "We're thrilled to welcome POPE Professional on board, who will be the first member of the community to join from India," he notes. "The POPE Professional team is committed to technical excellence and works hard to stay continuously updated with the latest advancements in audio technology – a fact that is proven by their decision to adopt RAVENNA into their products – offering their customers access to what remains the most powerful and advanced audio-over-IP technology on the market today.

"With their wide range of reliable, high-performance audio solutions, POPE Professional brings over 20 new RAVENNA-enabled products to the table," continues Hildebrand. "These include amplifiers, processors and active loudspeakers. We are pleased to see such a strong presence for RAVENNA in India and are very much looking forward to POPE's participation in the RAVENNA community."
