VSL Synchron Wagner Tuba Ensemble

The Vienna Symphonic Library announces the release of Synchron Wagner Tuba Ensemble, the final instalment of the acclaimed Synchron Special Brass collection. With this release, the collection is now complete, comprising 11 separately available Single Packs that span the full spectrum of the brass family from the Piccolo Trumpet to the Contrabass Tuba. The new library consisting of four Wagner tubas recorded on the large Stage A of Vienna Synchron Stage is currently available at the introductory price of €79 (reg. €99) for the Standard Library and €129 (reg. €159) for the Full Library. To celebrate the completion of Synchron Special Brass, the Austrian company is offering introductory prices on all 11 Single Packs as well as the full Synchron Special Brass Collection through March 2, 2026.

Synchron Wagner Tuba Ensemble presents the noble sonority of four Wagner tubas in a cohesive, symphonic blend. Originally conceived by Richard Wagner for his monumental Ring cycle, the Wagner tuba was designed to bridge the tonal space between horn and trombone. Traditionally performed by horn players, it extends the expressive range of the horn section into a darker, more solemn register while preserving lyrical flexibility and blend. As an ensemble, the four instruments create a burnished, majestic sound that adds weight, warmth, and harmonic depth to orchestral writing. Thanks to the intuitive Flow View interface in the Vienna Synchron Player, composers can access all articulations instantly and shape performances with natural fluidity without being distracted by technical details or workflow interruptions.

Recorded on the iconic Stage A, the library captures not only the power of the ensemble but also the hall's transparent acoustic signature. Natural spatial depth and clarity allow each individual voice to retain definition while merging into a unified symphonic whole, ready to integrate seamlessly into film, game, and concert productions.
